

JUNE 2024

AANLCP NEWSLETTER

Welcome to our June Newsletter! We believe in transparency, growth, communication, and the power of a professional community!

Executive Board News

The Executive Board invites nominations for the roles of secretary and president-elect. We seek candidates who are enthusiastic about our profession, dedicated to advancing the Association's interests, enjoy collaborative teamwork with fellow life care planners, and possess foresight to aid in nonprofit planning. Board service demands commitment and effort but promises unparalleled rewards in experiences, knowledge, connections, and relationships. For inquiries about the president-elect role, its expectations, workload, and future prospects, please contact Misty Coffman at pastpresident@aanlcp.org. To express interest or nominate someone, please email info@aanlcp.org. We look forward to collaborating with you!

Outreach Committee

We are thrilled to gain a couple of new outreach members: Kristin Clarkson and Julia Marshall. Kristin jumped right in and picked up on the management of this newsletter.

We hope you were able to meet Colleen Morely, CMSA President, at our AANLCP Conference. CMSA graciously reciprocated a complimentary booth at their conference earlier this month. It was our goal to inform case managers to consider life care planning as an extension of their practice and to join AANLCP for support. Marketing materials were developed using our new logo. Julia was instrumental in getting these ordered for the conference. We also developed materials for the National Nurses in Business Association meeting in July.

Our outreach committee will be presenting Life Care Planning 101 to the Case Management Society of America on July 16, 2024 at 12:00 PM CDT. AANLCP members are encouraged to attend! If you are just getting started in life care planning, this basic overview might pull the pieces together a bit. Registration can be made at: www.pathlms.com/cmsa/courses/70916. Users will need to have a CMSA user profile.

Thanks to Susan Burke for her steadfast presence and assistance in solidifying our committee policy and procedures. If you have an interest in social media, we would love to have you join our committee and further spread the word about AANLCP and life care planning.

Book Review By Liz Holakiewicz, RN, BSN, CCM, CNLCP®

The Women by Kristin Hannah. A new nursing graduate, Frankie Mc Grath, enlists in the army nurse corp bound for Vietnam, following her brother's example and carrying on her family legacy of military service. She is dropped "in country" into an evac hospital where she ultimately becomes a surgical nurse and is subsequently transferred to a heavy combat 71st Mobile hospital. The horrors of the Napalm, bombing, and direct combat injuries sustained by the soldiers, as well as the local Vietnamese people, are brutally depicted in contrast to the supportive collegial and romantic relationships. Once home, Mc Grath's nursing service is not recognized by her family or potential employers, and her nightmares threaten her ability to function. She spirals into addiction, attempts suicide, and struggles to recover. The camaraderie and support of her nurse colleagues sustains her in a new way of serving her fellow veterans.

The author develops a wonderful character in nurse Mc Grath and details a well researched storyline on the Vietnam war from her perspective. Mc Grath is compassionate and tender while also being tough and fearless. The reader literally feels the contrast in the storylines between being "in country" and home. The abandonment and shame our country perpetrated on these veterans despite their tremendous sacrifice is highlighted by the author and left this reader unsettled. Kristin Hannah has a way of taking the reader on an emotional ride, never giving up on nurse Mc Grath, always seeing her potential.
